

Refinery

AMEX NOOTER has a long impressive track record of work in the refinery industry. Since its inception in 1979 it has been deeply involved in every facet of refinery construction. In fact, the name AMEX originally came from the Amoco Experience. That is where the company started.

AMEX NOOTER has the experience to perform some of the most difficult tasks at refineries, whether it be large capital projects or the day to day maintenance, turnarounds and shut downs. We can perform all work with our skilled craftsmen with the highest degree of safety, on time and on budget.

We utilize pipefitters, millwrights, boilermakers, operating engineers, carpenters, teamsters, laborers and can handle any size project no matter how large or small. Since our acquisition by Nooter Construction in June of 2011, we have instituted the Nooter Management System (NMS) to assure our clients receive the highest level of consistent performance. This well-defined system links the company's core values, objectives, job responsibilities and work processes. The end result is to provide our clients with the highest level of performance from our small 2 man jobs to our 500,000 + man-hour major projects.
